LEVERAGING OUR STRENGTHS

Year in Review (FY 2012)

DEAR PARTNERS,

AS I THINK BACK TO THE TRULY EXTRAORDINARY YEAR WE'VE EXPERIENCED AT THE DEPARTMENT OF ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT, I'D LIKE TO SHARE A FEW THOUGHTS:

First of all, thank you for your interest in what we do. By opening this report, you've shown yourself to be one of many invested in the well-being and economic health of our state and our citizens. That makes you, by extension, a true partner in our work and an advocate for the benefits it brings to Georgia.

Secondly, the record-breaking results you will read about represent a greater sum than their parts. Jobs and investment equal more than statistics: they add up to a better quality of life for those who seize the opportunities they create. So while our metrics are related to numbers, our greater satisfaction is in the difference we can make in Georgians' daily lives.

Also, you should know that the activities portrayed in this Year in Review are just the tip of the iceberg. The results we achieved this year are supported by a large number of committed team members who labor behind the scenes to ensure our efforts are as effective and efficient as possible.

Finally, our successes are also yours. Achieving these kinds of outstanding results is always a team effort. Thanks to our many partners around the state, both public and private, we're able to bring business solutions to the table with the kind of flexibility, reliability and resourcefulness companies are looking for, and that makes all the difference.

Sincerely,

Chris Cummiskey

GDEC D ACCOMPLISHMENTS

PRO-GROWTH POLICIES

The 2012 Georgia General Assembly session was one of the most productive legislative sessions for economic development in many years, including several bills Governor Nathan Deal signed into law that will keep Georgia's business infrastructure among the most competitive nationwide. The new statutes will benefit manufacturers, the film industry, technology and start-up companies, the life sciences sector and businesses large and small in many other industries.

GEORGIA COMPETITIVENESS INITIATIVE

To help ensure Georgia remains among the best places for business, Governor Deal launched the Georgia Competitiveness Initiative (GCI) during 2011. The GCI was a public-private venture led by the Georgia Department of Economic Development and the Georgia Chamber of Commerce, along with a 23-member steering committee. Helmed by GDEC D Commissioner Chris Cummiskey and Georgia Chamber of Commerce President & CEO Chris Clark, this statewide initiative included regional meetings around the state designed to collect data from local leaders and influencers to learn about the diverse areas of need and priorities in every community in Georgia, with the ultimate intent to determine how Georgia will enhance its business competitiveness. Data was collected and compiled by UGA's Carl Vinson Institute of Government, and released in a full report that helped shaped Gov. Deal's economic development strategies, including influential economic development legislation that has now been signed into law stemming from this initiative.

INTERNATIONAL MISSIONS

Marketing Georgia to the world, in October 2011 Gov. Deal led international missions to South Korea and China, where Gov. Deal and Commissioner Cummiskey signed economic development agreements with Shandong Province and the city of Shanghai, China. The governor led Georgia's delegation to Turkey in May 2012, signifying Georgia's growing relationship with Turkey after being named one of just six U.S. states with whom Turkey intends to increase trade.

BILLS PASSED INTO LAW INCLUDE:

Elimination of the Sales and Use tax on energy used in manufacturing (HB 386)

Discretionary elimination of Sales and Use tax for construction materials (HB 386)

Freeport expansion and the elimination of the Local Inventory tax (HB 48)

Enhancements in statutory Job tax credits, Research and Development tax credits, Port tax credits, and Quality Job tax credits (HB 868)

GLOBAL COMMERCE OVERVIEW

Savannah's port is the fastest growing in America.

GDEcD's Global Commerce division works to bring about economic development results for Georgia by promoting the state's economic advantages and opportunities around the world. In the division's work to bring jobs and investment to Georgia, the Global Commerce teams of economic development professionals work aggressively to attract new business investments and expansions, and support the retention of Georgia's existing industry to create meaningful opportunities for the people and communities of Georgia.

During FY12, assistance from the Global Commerce division led to 403 announced projects, including the announcement of 28,776 jobs and nearly $6 billion in investment. The division's results led to a 32 percent increase in investment and a nearly 30 percent increase in jobs from FY11.

In their work to recruit companies in the logistics, energy, agribusiness and food processing (LEAF) industries to Georgia, project managers on the LEAF team develop industry-specific project leads. This team worked aggressively during the 2012 fiscal year to secure more than 3,100 jobs and $892 million in investment for Georgia. Included in those projects was the LEAF team's work with Starbucks to manage the location of the premier coffee retailer's fifth U.S. manufacturing facility in Augusta in Richmond County. This $172 million plant will be the company's first owned and operated facility in the world to produce soluble products, and will create 140 new jobs.

Project managers on the Global Commerce Corporate Solutions team are frontline resources for headquarters relocations projects, as well as financial services companies and call centers - all projects that typically yield higher paying jobs. During the 2012 fiscal year, this team led an expansion project for Georgia-based The Home Depot, helping the global retailer expand in Kennesaw in Cobb County, creating 700 jobs for a new national customer service call center. Foreign Direct Investment

Georgia's International Investments team led the charge in recruiting and developing project leads in the state's international offices in China, Germany, Japan, Korea and the United Kingdom. These project managers have the cultural, business and international language expertise to market Georgia to companies seeking foreign direct investment in the United States. Through its relationships in Europe, this team developed an opportunity for German auto-parts supplier Erdrich to locate its metal stamping plant in Dublin in Laurens County - a $39 million investment that will create 178 jobs. The company considered several U.S. states, but chose Georgia for the state's logistics advantages, skilled manufacturing workforce and progressive business environment amenable to future growth.

Team Snapshot

Existing Industry and Regional Recruitment

The Existing Industry and Regional Recruitment (EIRR) team of project managers managed more than 70 percent of GDEcD's total projects during FY12, indicating the significant economic impact of Georgia's existing industry base. The EIRR professionals live and work throughout Georgia's 12 regions, have first-hand knowledge of the priorities for their given region, and provide economic development resources tailored for each community. When Kia Motors Manufacturing Georgia announced plans for its $100 million expansion, the company relied on its ongoing relationship with the state through the EIRR team to manage this expansion, which created an additional 1,000 jobs in West Point in 2012, bringing total employment to around 3,000.

International Trade

The International Trade team works with Georgia exporters to grow and expand business through increased global sales. In FY12, The International Trade team was awarded grants from the Small Business Administration and the Appalachian Regional Commission that significantly increased export opportunities for Georgia companies. AdEdge Water Technologies, a Buford-based company specializing in technologies and systems that remove contaminants from water, is one such company assisted by the International Trade team. In addition to export counseling by Atlanta staff, in-country assistance in markets such as Chile and Canada and participation in two international trade shows, AdEdge reported increased export sales and multiple international representation agreements.

INTERNATIONAL OVERVIEW

Commissioner Chris Cummiskey being interviewed in Qingdao, China on a recent business mission.

The state's 10 international offices connect Georgia to the world, and help make important global connections through international trade, foreign direct investment and tourism opportunities. The GDEcD International Trade team works closely with Georgia's international trade offices in Brazil, Canada, Chile, China, Germany, Israel, Mexico and the United Kingdom to help companies export. In FY12, nearly 70 percent of international trade deals managed by GDEcD were assisted by efforts from the state's international offices. The state places significant priority on helping Georgia companies export, with statistics indicating year-over-year that exporting activities create twice as many jobs as domestic trade. For every job created in making a product or providing a service, another job is created in getting that product to market.

Georgia's international efforts are also strengthened through the state's global relationships. More than seventy countries are represented with consular offices and/or trade representation in Georgia, including 25 career consulates, 53 honorary consular offices, and more than a dozen stand-alone trade and investment agencies. Two new consulates general opened in Atlanta representing Brazil and India. These relationships help underscore the priority Georgia places on being a strategic location for international businesses to operate.

Denmark based automotive supplier Dinex Group is building a $15 million facility in Georgia.

In other international outreach during FY12, GDEcD hosted the 26th Annual International VIP Tour, which included top diplomats in Georgia representing 23 countries who toured the northwest region of the state. This year's International VIP Tour included representatives of Albania, the Bahamas, Belgium, Belize, Botswana, Brazil, Canada, the Czech Republic, Ecuador, Estonia, France, Germany, Greece, Haiti, Hungary, India, Ireland, Liechtenstein, Nigeria, the Philippines, Quebec, Sweden and Switzerland.

CENTERS OF INNOVATION OVERVIEW

The Georgia Centers of Innovation provide the expertise and connections to help Georgia companies and strategic industries solve problems, grow quickly and compete globally. The program focuses on the state's strategic industries: aerospace, agribusiness, energy, life sciences and information technology, logistics, and manufacturing, and provides companies with expertise, connections, and resources to help grow business in the state. Through successful programs like the Logistics Summit, One Stop Shop, Farm to Fork workshops and Lean 6 Sigma training, the Centers have provided opportunities for businesses to gain more expertise while connecting them to industry leaders and resources.

During FY12, GeorgiaLogistics.com was launched as a primary resource for the logistics industry and the Georgia Aerospace Advisory Council was established as a leader in aerospace business and workforce development. To better serve its industries, the Center of Innovation for Life Sciences & Information Technology underwent a transformation, realigning its mission. The growth in FY12 further enhances the Centers' role in becoming the thought leaders in these industries vital to Georgia's position among the best places for business.

"ON WE GO"

FY12 SAW RECORD INVESTMENT IN THE STATE BY THE ENTERTAINMENT INDUSTRY, WITH MORE THAN $879.8 MILLION IN DIRECT SPENDING. THE TOTAL ECONOMIC IMPACT OF THE 333 FEATURE FILMS, TV MOVIES, TV SERIES, COMMERCIALS AND MUSIC VIDEOS THAT FILMED IN GEORGIA WAS $3.1 BILLION, A 29 PERCENT INCREASE FROM FY11.

*The FY09 and FY10 figures include interactive entertainment; the FY11 and FY12 numbers include only film & television production.

INFRASTRUCTURE GROWTH

Georgia infrastructure for the entertainment industry continues to strengthen, with a number of businesses and other ventures locating in the state resulting from the growth of the industry in Georgia. City National Bank, a private bank known as a financial service provider for the music, theater, and movie industries, opened a regional office in Atlanta. Paramount Productions Support, Inc., a lighting and grip equipment provider, opened a rental facility in Smyrna. EUE Screen Gems completed construction on another soundstage in Atlanta, and Atlanta Film Studios Paulding County hosted its first project, the Jackie Robinson feature "42." Tyler Perry Studios acquired new acreage to build 17 additional soundstages. Haddad's Trucking purchased land and is building a production vehicle rental facility in Hiram. This is just a small glimpse of the new support service companies that have expanded in Georgia due in large part to the industry's overwhelming growth during the 2012 fiscal year.

CAMERA READY

On February 29, The Georgia Film, Music & Digital Entertainment (FMDE) Office celebrated "Film Day" at the State Capitol by bringing together vendors and film industry representatives for a "meet and greet" with legislators. In conjunction with Film Day, 25 additional Georgia counties were designated as "Camera Ready," bringing the number of counties proactively invested in attracting and supporting the film and television industry to 138.

PROJECTS & PRODUCTIONS

PROJECTS

Georgia continues to attract high-profile movie projects — projects that not only spend money during the production, but also serve as catalysts for significantly increased brand awareness, including tourism exposure. In FY12, Georgia landed its largest budget and highest profile project to date — "Catching Fire," the sequel to Lionsgate's billion dollar franchise "The Hunger Games." It is anticipated that the momentum generated by this project alone will bring film tourists to Georgia for years to come. Although this project will not shoot until FY13, Georgia hosted numerous well-known projects in FY12, including:
